Being multi-faceted in the music industry can be helpful in more ways than one. Ontario's Alex Price is the prime example of just that. Singer, songwriter, multi-instrumentalist, and producer are just the beginning of Alex's accolades in music. His versatility and talents allow for him to quickly make his vision a reality in totality, something not many artists can say. So, when a trip to L.A. sparked inspiration within Alex, "Love in L.A." was born. This indie-pop/R&B artist has been diligently hustling to bring addicting, fun music to fans everywhere. His vast array of life experience and his travels for performances both within Canada and internationally have all helped to craft his art.

The Continual Legacy of

DWAYNE 'MUFFLA' SIMON

Alex Price is the baby of the crew of countless artists blessed by the West Coast unsung hero, the man behind the beat super producer, cofounder of the LA Posse, Dwayne Muffla Simon. His presence in Hip Hop not only documents the existence of the greats, but it also defines a movement and a moment in musical time. This historic period includes #unclejammsarmy and being one of the first producers to work with East Coast artist LL Cool J. LA Posse produced LL's BAD LP and co-wrote I Need Love, to name a few of his shining wins.

He's also touched the lives of Ice Cube, Ice T, Snoop, Whodini and more as he navigated through the history pages of Hip Hop. What a dope nod to Alex Price he is.
